COURSE CONTENT

The Course structure is based on the criteria stipulated by BACP for Supervisor Accreditation, models facets of the supervisory relationship and aims to develop a learning community in which a healthy working alliance is established. Students will be expected to develop a sense of personal accountability in taking responsibility for their own learning and to participate in the learning of other course members.

The Course will explore a variety of models / theories of supervision, provide an opportunity for attendees to develop and practice supervision skills and help delegates work with the challenges posed when working within organisational settings.

The themes explored during the Course will enable attendees to develop an understanding of the unconscious processes within Supervision and to increase their appreciation of the developmental needs of both Supervisors and Supervisee.

Consideration of the Ethical context of Supervision will be core to the Course structure and ethos and we will explore the significance of working with difference and experience a range of opportunities to develop a creative and flexible personal supervision style.

APPLICATION

The Course is intended for qualified counsellors who are either currently Supervising or intend to Supervise counsellors or users of counselling skills.

Application is open to practitioners qualified in any counselling modality and aims to honour and respect the traditions of all counselling theoretical frameworks.

Applicants may be working in a voluntary organisation or statutory service or in independent practice and may be supervising individuals and / or groups with the goal of developing their knowledge and expertise.

Application to attend the Course is open for individuals who fulfil the following pre entry requirements:

- Have satisfactorily completed either a Foundation Degree in Counselling, a Diploma in Counselling or Higher Level Counselling qualification
- Who have completed at least 2 years post qualification counselling practice with a overall minimum of 300 supervised client hours
- Are recognised as BACP Accredited Practitioners (or equivalent UKCP) or are working toward accreditation
- Have in place arrangements to a minimum of 1 hour regular monthly personal consultative supervision support for your supervision work with a suitably qualified supervisor.
- Whilst on the Course individuals will need to be working as a Supervisor with a minimum of 2 individuals (not seen as a pair) or 1 individual and one group and complete at least 60 hours Supervision practice of which up to 35 hours may be completed within the course structure (Supervision skills practise sessions). Attendees must be supervising counsellors or other profession's supervisees appropriate to their own work.

Allocation of places will be subject to personal assessment by the Tutors whose decision to admit an applicant will be final.
